1. What is a Contract?

A contract is a legally binding agreement between two or more parties that creates mutual obligations enforceable by law. It can be written, oral, or implied by conduct.

2. What Are the Essential Elements of a Valid Contract?

For a contract to be valid, the following elements must be present:

- Offer: A clear proposal made by one party to another indicating a willingness to enter into an agreement.
- Acceptance: The unequivocal agreement to the terms of the offer by the other party.
- Consideration: Something of value exchanged between the parties.
- Intention to Create Legal Relations: Both parties must intend the agreement to have legal consequences.
- Capacity: Parties must have the legal capacity to contract, meaning they are of sound mind, of age, and not disqualified by law.
- Legality: The subject matter must be lawful.

3. What Types of Contracts Are There?

Contracts can be classified based on their formation and purpose:

Express Contracts Parties explicitly state the terms, either orally or in writing.
Implied Contracts Terms are inferred from conduct, circumstances, or the nature of the relationship.
Unilateral Contracts One party makes a promise in exchange for the act of another.

The core principles of contract law revolve around the formation of valid contracts, the terms involved, and the enforceability of those agreements.

Common Contract Law Questions and Answers

- What is a contract, and what are its essential elements?

Question:

What constitutes a valid contract under English law?

Answer:

A valid contract under English law must satisfy several essential elements:

- Offer: One party must make a clear, unequivocal proposal to enter into an agreement.
- Acceptance: The other party must accept the offer unequivocally and in the manner specified or reasonably expected.

- Intention to Create Legal Relations: Both parties must intend for the agreement to have legal consequences.
- Consideration: There must be some value exchanged between parties, such as money, services, or promises.
- Capacity: Parties must have the legal capacity to contract (e.g., not minors or mentally incapacitated).
- Legal Purpose: The contract's purpose must be legal and not against public policy.

Additional Notes:

- The agreement must be certain and complete.
- The contract can be written, oral, or implied by conduct, though some types require written form (e.g., contracts for sale of land).

- How does offer and acceptance work in contract formation?

Question:

What are the rules governing offer and acceptance in contract law?

Answer:

Offer and acceptance are fundamental to forming a contract. The process involves:

- Offer:
  - Must be clear, definite, and communicated to the offeree.
  - Can be revoked before acceptance unless it is an irrevocable offer (e.g., a firm offer under the Sale of Goods Act).
- Acceptance:
  - Must be absolute and unqualified; any variation may be considered a counter-offer.
  - Must be communicated to the offeror, except in cases where silence or conduct implies acceptance.
  - Acceptance must be made within the timeframe specified or within a reasonable period.

Rules and Principles:

- The "mirror image rule" states acceptance must exactly match the offer.
- The "postal rule" applies in some cases, meaning acceptance is effective when mailed, not when received.
- Instantaneous communication (e.g., phone, email) requires acceptance to be received to be effective.

- What is consideration, and why is it necessary?

Question:

Why is consideration essential in contract law, and what does it entail?

Answer:

Consideration refers to something of value exchanged between parties, which is necessary to validate a contract under English law. It serves as evidence that both parties intend to enter into a binding agreement.

Features of Consideration:

- Must be sufficient but need not be adequate (the law generally does not judge the fairness of consideration).
- Can be a promise to do something or refrain from doing something.
- Can be past, present, or future, but only if it is part of the current bargain (past consideration is generally not valid).
- Must move from the promisee; a third party cannot provide consideration unless there is a specific exception.

Importance:

- Consideration distinguishes a contractual promise from a gift.
- Without consideration, a promise is usually not enforceable unless it is made in a deed.
- What are the types of contracts, and how are they classified?

Question:

How are contracts classified under English law?

Answer:

Contracts can be classified based on various criteria:

d) By Nature of Obligation:

- Bilateral Contracts: Both parties make promises.
- Unilateral Contracts: One party promises in exchange for an act by the other.

- What are the defenses to contract enforcement?

  - Duress: Contracts entered into under threats or coercion are voidable.
  - Undue Influence: If one party exerts improper pressure on another, the contract may be invalid.
